

Many of the hotel's guests are regulars. They come for the generous hospitality and congenial surroundings, but many also come to enjoy the rhythm of the changing seasons. Of course, the summer months are lovely, but Clovelly has so much to offer throughout the rest of the year.

As a fishing village, where most livelihoods depended on the sea, our Maritime Festival in July and Lifeboat day in August are both fantastic events. But for something completely different, take a break in June for the Seaweed Festival, in September for the Lobster and Crab Feast, or in November for the unique Clovelly Herring Festival – celebrations of a time when the sea's bounty was the mainstay of the community.

With a winter break you can explore the area without the crowds. Enjoy bracing cliff-top walks or go beachcombing after a storm, and all with the prospect of hot fires and a hearty dinner to come back to. Our Christmas Lights ceremony in December is a wonderful seasonal occasion with harbourside carols, brass band, mulled wine, barbeque, and even a visit from Santa to spread some seasonal good cheer, with a fireworks grande finale. Join us for our legendary Christmas and New Year breaks.

Or join us in early spring when the days are becoming longer and the woods, fields and hedgerows are burgeoning with new life.

Whenever you choose to come and stay, you can always be sure of the warmest of welcomes at the New Inn.

*A lovely location
halfway down the hill.
A warm, friendly feel.
Delicious fish and chips.
Breakfast generous helpings and tasty food.

With picturesque, flower-strewn cottages tumbling down its cobbled street to the ancient harbour, Clovelly evokes a timelessness that weaves a particularly enchanting spell, captivating all who visit. So much so that leaving here is often the hardest part.

Fortunately, arriving is much easier!

Leave the M5 at Junction 27. You'll find Clovelly just off the A39 about 10 miles west of Bideford.

By rail the nearest station is at Barnstaple.

Peaceful... idyllic... quaint... relaxing... unique... These are some of the most often repeated words in our visitors' book. Come and stay awhile yourself and you'll soon discover why.

It's certainly peaceful. Vehicles aren't allowed in the village, so there's no traffic noise. It's idyllic, too, surrounded as it is by glorious wooded countryside and magnificent coastline. As for quaint, simply look around at a picturesque scene that has hardly changed in generations. It's enough to relax even the most stressed-out traveller.

In the hotel we've gone out of our way to make your stay comfortable and enjoyable. It's something you'll particularly notice in the way our staff look after you, with service that is attentive yet unobtrusive, courteous yet informal. Perhaps that's why so many of our guests think of us as not so much a hotel, more a home from home.

And all that, we think you'll agree, makes a relaxing break here at the New Inn quite unique.

*Loved the fact that we could take the dog. Room was really nice with a balcony to sit watching the world go by. Food was good and realistically priced. Breakfast wonderful with lots of choice. Staff really friendly and helpful.

Much of the New Inn charm lies in its layout and décor. Rebuilt over 100 years ago in the style of the fabled English designer, William Morris, the hotel has, in more recent times, been completely refurbished, yet has stayed faithful to the original vision.

From the restful lounges to the individually created bedrooms, all the furniture and decorations have been carefully selected to reflect the grace and elegance of the Arts and Crafts era, with standards of service and comfort more appropriate for 21st century visitors. In addition to superb furnishings, colour TV and en-suite facilities, most bedrooms offer sea views, while several have balconies overlooking the village – ideal for leisurely people watching.

Rooms lovely and clean and location perfect. As we visited in December the village had a great Christmas Vibe. In fact Clovelly itself is lovely overall. Z, Uk

Thank you for this peaceful stay, hope to come back next year, Bliss and Harmony with this place. L. B, Germany.

Hamlyn's breakfast and afternoon tea room is light and airy with a portrait of Christine Hamlyn in her wedding dress on the wall. It is also the perfect place to hold wedding receptions, private functions, group visits and other special events.

The Up Along Bar offers delicious lunches, dinners, local ales and ciders. Its menu reflects traditional English cooking at its best, and evolves with the seasons. And with vegetables and produce from Clovelly Court Gardens, grown to organic principles, plus game from Clovelly estate and fresh fish landed on the nearby quay, our chef creates dishes based on the finest of local ingredients.

Wonderful hospitality, breakfast, lovely setting and great food. Mr. & Mrs. G. Portishead.
