

Some more things to do...

Clovelly Court Gardens and church

Ask at the Visitor Centre for directions to Clovelly Court, the ancient manor house of the estate. Its walled kitchen gardens, with restored Victorian glasshouses, are open to visitors. The parish church of All Saints dates mainly from the 13th century and generations of village families are buried in its churchyard.

Wildlife watching

The woodlands that drape the cliffs are home to gnarled oak trees and a variety of birds, butterflies and small mammals. Don't miss the spectacular displays of foxgloves, primroses and bluebells, and the mellow autumn colours.

Traditional crafts

Watch skilled crafts people at work in the craft yard, creating beautiful items such as printed silks and pottery. There is also the opportunity for you to 'Paint a Pot'.

Coastal walks

One of the best ways to appreciate the stunning setting of Clovelly is to stroll along the Hobby Drive. As it winds through the woods, it gives magnificent glimpses of the harbour and Bideford Bay. The coastal path in the opposite direction also gives breathtaking views. On its way to the dramatic Hartland Point, it passes the carved shelter named 'Angel's Wings'; Gallantry Bower, a 350ft headland and Mouth Mill Cove, once the haunt of smugglers. Please see our Coast Walks brochure for further information.

Boat and fishing trips

Take a fishing trip, cruise the coastline, or join an excursion to Lundy Island. For details, please ask at the Visitor Centre.

Stay a while

There is so much to do in Clovelly, why not stay a while? The Red Lion, has en-suite accommodation and excellent bar and restaurant food (also open to non-residents). Some cottages offer bed and breakfast.

For an accommodation list call 01237 431781 or look on our website www.clovelly.co.uk

A unique place

What other village has no cars and no individually owned houses? Clovelly is owned by one family (one of only three since the Norman Conquest). Caring for the village is a costly business, especially as the buildings are all repaired with traditional materials. Your admission fees help with the maintenance of the village, and play a vital role in keeping Clovelly so special.

The Visitor Centre

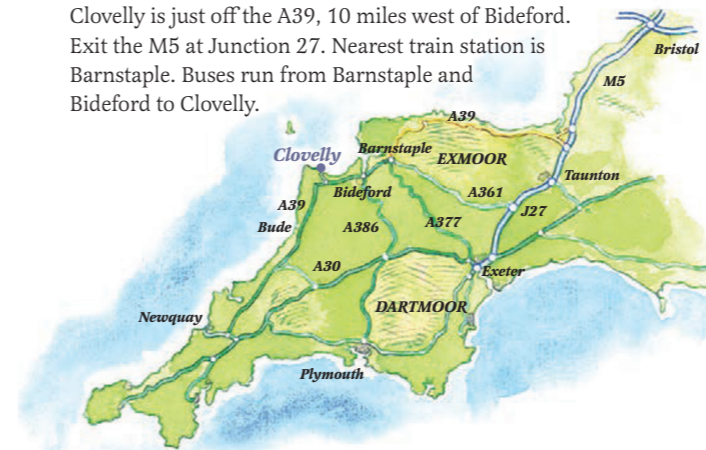

Modelled on a traditional Devon long barn, the award-winning Visitor Centre houses a café and souvenir shop – so that the village remains uncommercialised. To make the most of your visit, start with the film show (20 mins) which tells the fascinating story of Clovelly and is well worth seeing.

Admission fees and how to find us

The entrance fee covers parking and other facilities provided by the Clovelly Estate, as well as admission to the film show, Fisherman's Cottage, Kingsley Museum and Clovelly Court Gardens.

Admission (2025)*: Adult £9.90; Child (7-16) £5.75
Family (2 Adults, 2 Children) £26.00; Under 7's free
Prices correct at time of printing*

Clovelly is just off the A39, 10 miles west of Bideford. Exit the M5 at Junction 27. Nearest train station is Barnstaple. Buses run from Barnstaple and Bideford to Clovelly.

Please note that the High Street is steep and can be slippery – so do wear sensible footwear. The street is not suitable for wheelchairs. However, the Visitor Centre, donkey stables and craft workshops are all wheelchair accessible and make an enjoyable outing in themselves.

CLOVELLY

North Devon

Discover the timeless village of Clovelly.
Where the steep, cobbled street tumbles down past gleaming white cottages to the tiny, deep-blue harbour...

“Suddenly a hot gleam of sunlight fell upon the white cottages, with their grey steaming roofs and little scraps of garden courtyard, and lighting up the wings of the gorgeous butterflies which fluttered from the woodland down to the garden.”

This is how author, CHARLES KINGSLEY, described Clovelly over 150 years ago. Yet the village has changed so little over the decades that his words could have been written today... However, Clovelly offers much more than just breathtaking scenery. You can discover fascinating history, wonderful walks, traditional crafts – and the famous Clovelly donkeys. And don't forget that many of Clovelly's treasures are hidden down the tiny side streets and alleys, so do explore...

Donkeys and sledges

The street is too steep for motor vehicles, so for centuries donkeys were the main form of transport. Although they are no longer used for heavy loads, Clovelly still has its resident donkeys. All goods in the village are now transported by sledge – from groceries to furniture and building materials!

You can see the donkeys most days in the village or the stable yard (2)

Step into the past

Clovelly's impressive quay dates back to the 14th century, as do many of the cottages. The famous cobbled street, known as 'Up-along' or 'Down-along', was built from pebbles hauled from the beach.

Watch the film show in the Visitor Centre to discover more (1).

Seafaring traditions

Clovelly was once a bustling fishing port, famed for its herring and mackerel. Although fishing has declined it is still a part of village life. In past centuries, this coastline was rife with smuggling, wrecking and piracy. It is also notorious for shipwrecks – so, since 1870, Clovelly has had its own lifeboat.

Find out more by visiting the Fisherman's Cottage (8).

For details of fishing trips, please ask at the Visitor Centre.

Inspiration for Kingsley

Charles Kingsley lived in Clovelly as a child and returned many times as an adult, staying at what is now known as Kingsley Cottage. He wrote 'Westward Ho!' while in Clovelly, and the village also inspired him to write 'The Water Babies'.
